Thanksgiving, then look at all the ads while plotting our strategy. Stores that gave a gift to the first hundred people would have a leg up. Tom would go to Pennys, while Sandy would take Mervyn's. Mom worked retail so she usually had to work. When Dad was healthy, he'd go to Kmart while I took charge of Target. And we'd do it all over again the day after Christmas.

And it was fun. There was camaraderie in the line. Sometimes one person would make a coffee run and take orders from a bunch of people. You'd discuss what you were looking for while in line and grab one for that person if you got to that counter before they did. Every once in awhile someone would complain about the line and you'd think, "What the heck did you expect?"

And then it started to change...

The Watershed, Tempe's newest kitchen, bar and lakeside patio, brings a little Newport Beach, San Francisco and New Mexico to the table. Phase one renovations of one of the most unique locations in the East Valley are complete and include a 200-person patio and an indoor "Captain's Lounge." The menu can best be described as modern American with twists on familiar classics. For more information, go to watershedaz.com.

James Tevault recently joined the staff at the Tempe Tourism Office as the director of sales. Originally from Texas, Tevault has lived in the Phoenix area for 26 years. He has over 20 years of experience in the hospitality industry, including 10 years of hotel operations and sales in Tempe, Mesa, Scottsdale and Phoenix. The Tempe Tourism Office also recently launched a new branding campaign, including an updated logo, new advertising creative and tagline. The logo reflects the new tagline, "Refreshingly Arizona." The Tempe Tourism Office team wanted to visually connect the city of Tempe with the state of Arizona in the ad creative and logo. For examples of the new logo and advertisements, visit <http://www.tempetourism.com/membership/>.
